

Botulinum toxin A (excessive sweating, hyperhidrosis)

A very effective therapy for hyperhidrosis is the local injection of botulinum toxin A. This drug temporarily blocks the sensitive nerve fibers on the sweat glands, reducing axillary sweating to a minimum.

Implementation

Before treatment, a local anesthetic cream is applied for 20 minutes. After the subsequent injection of botulinum toxin A, the full effect occurs after 5-7 days and lasts for about half a year.

The cost is CHF 750

The treatment is not covered by health insurance.

Treatment of mimic wrinkles

Botulinum anti-wrinkle treatment is a safe, established and effective method of fighting wrinkles. Unwanted mimic wrinkles can be weakened or eliminated in a targeted manner. The injections achieve that overactive mimic muscles are immobilized and relax. For example, a botulinum treatment can be used to treat frown lines, smile lines, crow's feet on the sides of the eyes or transverse wrinkles on the forehead.

At gynXtra you will be informed in a detailed consultation about the advantages and disadvantages, effects and possible side effects of a treatment with botulinum toxin.
